We would like to invite you to Science Day – Polish Contribution, a festival of science organised within British Science Week, whose ambition is to promote science and technology among the general public and to highlight the contribution of Polish scientists and engineers to the society.

The event will take place on Sunday, March 10th, 2019

in the premises of The Polish Social & Cultural Centre (POSK), Hammersmith, 238-246 King Street, W6 0RF
(nearest tube station: Ravenscourt Park on District line)

The day will start at 11:00 in POSK Theatre on the first floor with a keynote speech delivered by Professor Dame Anna Dominiczak

Head of the College of Medical, Veterinary & Life Sciences at the University of Glasgow.

This will be followed by a day of lectures on the latest scientific achievements delivered by world-class scientists, interactive workshops and experiments showing fascinating phenomena and state-of-the-art technologies.
